

WRIGLEY'S

"AFTER EVERY MEAL"

Mint leaf, peppermint or luscious juicy fruit, either flavor is a treat for your sweet tooth.

And all are equally good for you. Teeth, appetite and digestion all benefit.

Your nerves will say "thank you," your vim will respond.

WRIGLEY'S is liked for what it does as well as for its BIG value at the small cost of 5c.

AND IT WAS THE SAME MULE HAD A TRICK WORTH WHILE

Friends Tell Good Story on Lawyer Who Has Risen to High Position in State.

Cot. W. H. Holmes, state superintendent of game for the department of conservation, was admitted to the bar on reaching his majority. His first case was to prove that a certain mule belonged to a certain negro. He won the case.

Subsequently in another mule case he proved the animal belonged to another negro. Then he was elected district attorney, and the first case he had to prosecute was one concerning a mule. The mule had been stolen and was over the line in Mississippi. He was going to abandon the case, when one of his former clients approached him and said:

"Cunnel, if I was you all, I'd go after dat mule. Dat's de mule been suppohtin' you evar since you was a lawyer."

And in all three cases it was the same mule.—New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Society Beggar Knew How to Get on the Soft Side of Mrs. Gobbs Golde.

"Charity begins at home," said Dr. Wilbur P. Crafts of the International Reform bureau of Washington, "but no truth is so disregarded as this one."

"Two beggar women met on the street one day.

"Fine coat you've got there. Where did you land it?" said the first beggar woman.

"Old Mrs. Gobbs Golde gave it to me," said the second beggar woman.

"Is that so? I've begged at Mrs. Gobbs Golde's hundreds of times, and she never gave me a cent. How did you work her?"

"Well, you see," said the first beggar woman, stroking her new coat complacently, "I didn't tell her I was begging for myself. I pretended I was begging for the heathen."

The Rural Cynic.

"Hiram," said Mrs. Cornstossel, "the boarders will soon be along enjoyin' the fresh air and admirin' the scenery."

"I suppose so. But my suspicion is that while they talk about air and scenery, what's on their minds is keepin' down the cost of livin'."

Summer Silks Rustle Into View

THE rustle of many enticing new silk frocks for midsummer reveals that taffeta has an assured triumph in store for it. THERE are two most appealing features among the newly arrived models in the blouse shape—one is the remarkably beautiful color effects in those blouses in which two colors are combined, and the other is—price. Blouses are cheaper than they were, to the joy of women who are prone to extravagance in this quarter as in millinery. Blouses are regarded much in the same light as hats; both are required always to be decorative, after one fashion or another, and to present themselves in several distinct styles, ever varying and always chic. There are blouses for all occasions as there are hats, and they play important roles in toning up the costume.

The over-blouse with short extension below the waistline and narrow belt or girdle, and the tie-back styles in dress and semi-dress models, appear to outlive the truck-in mode, although the latter is well represented. Georgette crepe grows dearer to the hearts of women apparently—no other fabric holds quite the same place in their esteem as this beautiful material, and it seems made for blouses—the garment and the fabric suit each other to perfection. It inaugurated and has maintained a tendency to sheer materials for many things, and even for tailored blouses the styles tend to soft silks—crepe de chine the favorite—and thin linens or cottons.

The blouse pictured here is representative of the type that is proving most popular. It is of georgette with an effect of embroidery made by a soft and very small silk cord, couched down, with a few beads introduced in the design. This couching, combined with solid embroidery, adorns some of the handsomest of the new blouses and proves an inexpensive decoration. The round neck and flaring, split sleeves are favorites, but necks and sleeves vary in their treatment. The round neck divides prestige with the collar that is high at the back and ends in square or "V"-shaped opening at the front, and sleeves have many ingenious ways of ending their somewhat brief careers.

The Responsible Party.

Jimble's report card was full of distinctly poor grades and the mother was scolding him about them. She even threatened to deprive him of picture shows if they were not made better. "Why, just look at Teddy S—" she said. "Almost every one of his grades was excellent."

Jimble's downcast face became even more so. "Well, it's your fault my grades aren't as good as his," he declared.

"My fault," ejaculated his mother. "What nonsense! How did you get that?"

"Well, his father is a widower and the teacher is looking for a husband," came back his perfectly lucid answer.

Remarkable Strata.

drilling a test well for oil Turkey Track ranch near An, Tex., W. Scott Heywood associates discovered a deposit which is 111 feet thick. This strata was encountered at a depth of 700 feet, and what is said the most remarkable thing about it no water was encountered. Has there been any water anywhere else in the well. Is now at a depth of more 700 feet. The fact that there water above the salt bed makes ing of the product an easy it is said.

Tragedy in Rhyme.

Three small boys broke all the rules. Stole a watch with seven fools. Left Waukegan, happy home. Started out, the world to roam. Reached Chicago, tired, broke. Tried to put the watch in soak. Oldest and the smartest kid, asked Tom Duffy what he'd bid. Duffy is a plain clothes copper. Whaled their trousers good and proper.

Potash for Side Dressing

For side dressing cotton, corn and other Southern crops,

200 pounds Kainit, or
125 pounds 20 per cent Manure Salt, or 50 pounds of Muriate of Potash, furnish the same amount of Actual Potash which is so profitable in preventing cotton rust and in increasing the yield of cotton, corn and general crops.

These are the three Standard German Potash Salts that have been used for generations to great advantage in the South.

Having planted the crop, one cannot afford to let it starve. A good side dressing may make all the difference between success and failure.

Try it and you will find that
